Details

It's Riak's turn!

This talk will be in two parts. In the first part, we will learn how Basho utilizes devops methodologies and the impact it has on engineering. Afterwards, Tom Santero will talk about Riak itself, and demo a portable Riak Cluster.

Sean Carey - Director of Development Operations

Twitter:

Sean (@densone) joined Basho in October 2011. Prior to Basho, he was an independent consultant mainly focusing on large multi-datacenter systems and the development of system management applications. Some of his previous clients include BrightCove, Where, and Electronic Arts. At Basho, Sean and his team focus on System Architecture, System Engineering, Sales Engineering, and Configuration Management. When he's not working, you can find him at Cigar Masters in Boston, talking about technology and playing chess.

Tom Santero -Technical Evangelist

Tom Santero (@tsantero) joined Basho Technologies in March 2012. Prior to Basho, Tom spent several years in the finance industry in equity sales and trading, which eventually lead him to build automated trading systems in his spare time. As Technical Evangelist at Basho, Tom is tasked with educating engineers and architects on all things Riak, supporting the Riak community and hacking on various ad-hoc projects. When he's not working, Tom can usually be found somewhere in Brooklyn, chain smoking cigarettes and enjoying a good beer.
